

Shipt Mileage Log: Year Summary

Fill in once a year. The IRS asks for total miles for the year and the date you started using the car for business.

Tax year

Vehicle (year, make, model)

Date you started using it for business

License plate

Odometer on January 1

Odometer on December 31

Total miles for the year (Dec 31 minus Jan 1)

Total business miles (sum of months below)

Month	Business miles	IRS rate for those miles	Notes
January
February
March
April
May
June
July
August
September
October
November
December
Total

Tips

- Log every drive tied to an order: to the store, store to customer, and back toward the next one. Ask a tax pro about home to first store.
- Write it down daily or at least weekly. The IRS treats a weekly log as timely; a year rebuilt in April is not.
- You can't deduct miles you estimate. Odometer readings or a tracking app's record are what hold up.
- The IRS rate can change mid-year (2026: 72.5 cents through June 30, 76 cents from July 1), so total by month.

Shipt Mileage Log

One line per drive. Print as many copies of this page as you need. Week of: _____

Example: 10/05 | Home | Target, Main St | Shipt: shop order | 48,210 | 48,216 | 6

Page total: _____ miles